And now listen to the broadcast:

Ten years have passed since Princess Diana died in a tragic road accident in Paris. Prince William and Prince Harry were only 15 and 12 years old at the time, yet still old enough to have fond and treasured memories of their much loved mother. As a tribute to Princess Diana, the Princes are organizing a concert as a double tribute to commemorate the anniversary of her death on the 31st of August and to celebrate her birthday on the 1st of July. The star studded concert will feature a long list of stars who Diana, William and Harry all love. Amongst those on the list will be Sir Elton John, who sang at the Princess's funeral, Andrew Lloyd Weber (composer of world famous musicals) and a performance by the English National Ballet.

The Princes said in a recent interview that the whole idea surrounding the concert is a celebration of Princess Diana's life and charity work. Therefore all money from the tickets, which cost 45 pounds, will go to selected charities of which the Princes are patrons - Centrepoin and Sentebale, which help victims of AIDS and HIV.

As young boys, Diana took her sons along to charity events and they accompanied her on visits to centres for children and other victims of AIDS and HIV. Prince William said that although he was too young to understand what was going on at the time, he has come to really appreciate his mother's efforts in showing the Princes what real life is really like. They both feel the desire to continue the charity work their mother started.

Princess Diana was much criticised at the time for becoming politically involved when carrying out charity work with landmine victims following war in African countries. This did not deter her and paved the way for celebrities to use their fame in order to help others.

The concert will take place this summer at the new Wembley Stadium and Arena and has been thoughtfully named "Concert for Diana".

After listening to the recording, answer the following questions. Give the answer which best fits what is mentioned in the text.

1. How long ago did Princess Diana die?
2. What are they organizing to remember her and her life?
3. Which star will be involved in the event and also performed at Princess Diana's funeral?
4. What will the Princes do with all the money they raise from the event?
5. Why was Princess Diana criticised for her charity work?
